

9th Australian Information Security Management Conference

Call for Papers

5-7 December 2011
Perth, Western Australia

The 9th Australian Information Security Management Conference (AISM 2011) will be held from 5 – 7 December, 2011 in Perth, Western Australia.

Information security is the central core of security, namely to maintain confidentiality, availability and integrity. In an environment of rapid change, increasing reliance on remote access to information and the increasing adoption of online services, it is essential to discuss and discover new processes for the protection of information. The aim of AISM 2011 is to encourage the dissemination of research to all stakeholders in the information security sphere of influence, including security practitioners, academics, law enforcement and management, who are all cordially invited to participate.

Papers are invited in the following areas, but not limited to:

- Information Security Management
- Data Security
- Data Governance
- Information Assurance
- Security Policy
- Information Security Awareness
- Enterprise Data Protection
- Authentication & Authorisation
- Privacy
- Mobile Security
- Network Security
- Risk Assessment
- Secure Development
- Internet Security

- Application and Platform Security
- Software Protection
- Information Security Threats

All submitted papers will be double blind peer reviewed.
